Six Santa Elena Men Arrested And Charged For Drug Possession

SANTA ELENA TOWN, Cayo District, Friday, November 28, 2014:

Six Santa Elena men were arrested and charged for the possession of a controlled drug with intent to supply.

On Friday, November 28, San Ignacio police were on routine patrol on George Price Avenue in Santa Elena when their attention was drawn to six men sitting around a table in the yard.

Upon approaching the young men police immediately smelt a strong marijuana scent. The young men around the table were searched and however nothing incriminating was found.

Further checks in the immediate vicinity led to the discovery of a red Emperador biscuit pack lodged between a zinc and a piece of lumber, the bag contained three small transparent plastic bags containing a green leafy substance suspected to be marijuana.

All six men were advised of the offence committed and were escorted to the San Ignacio police station where they were identified as,

Joel Fuentes, 29, Belizean laborer,
Rafael Requena, 50, Belizean
Amin Gonzales, 25, Belizean
Jiovannie Lucero, 27, Belizean
Steve Luna, 31, Belizean
Canciones Myvette, 29, Belizean
Rafael Requena, 31, Belizean

Organic Produce Becoming A Reality For Belize

By: Bart Mickler

Organic vegetables are in high demand due to safety concerns. Not too long ago all food grown in Belize was organic. With commercial growing came agrochemicals and concerns about the health of both the soil and the consumer. In recent times in Belize, the only way to assure that food is grown safely and organically is to grow your own.

Consumers worldwide have become increasingly alarmed at the incidence of agrochemical poisons in their food because indications are that it is the cause of increases in cancer and other serious diseases. There are many people who simply don’t want produce that has been exposed to agrochemicals or other environmental toxins and GMOs.

Some people are turning to organically produced vegetables in Belize because they know that agrochemicals are often not safely used. Washing can’t make vegetables safe because some of the chemicals are inside the produce. Belize, unfortunately, is not yet sufficiently monitoring the safety of the vegetables in the markets. There is no mechanism to guarantee that the farmer harvests and sells according to safe guidelines. How are consumers to find a nontoxic solution?

Greenhouse technology has recently made the commercial growing of organic produce easier and cheaper. In the last few years, small farmers have found they can grow certain vegetables more reliably under greenhouses, thus increasing their profits. These sealed greenhouses naturally decrease the need for agrochemicals and the result is safer produce. The recent availability of natural “green seal” plant medicines has also contributed to organic produce becoming a reality. Many farmers have readily embraced this ‘natural’ path due to their inherent suspicion of agrochemical poisons and their concern for their own families’ health.

Consumers in Belize have come one giant step closer to having organic produce as the result of the initiative of a San Ignacio group. On November 10, the Maya Mountain Learning Exchange initiated a series of monthly symposiums on ‘Wellness’ at the Maya Mountain Lodge. The first 3 months are dedicated to “Finding Healthy Foods”. The first session, attended by 50 consumers, producers, and health food vendors, generated positive commitment by many of the participants to making organic produce available.

Participants immediately organized an organic market place where safe produce could be picked up as well as purchased. There is much enthusiasm for developing a larger buying group before the December symposium. After the meeting, a facebook page, “Cayo Healthy Food”, was launched and received over 400 ‘likes’ within 2 weeks. A facebook group and google group were launched to broadcast a weekly price list of available products so that consumers could order by email or telephone and pickup their order on Saturdays.

Inquiries and orders are now coming from as far away as San Pedro, Belize City, and Punta Gorda. The advice this Cayo group is giving to other areas is to copy their effort by organizing a buyers’ group in their own area and sharing shipping costs.

Demand may soon outstrip the supply because people are seriously interested in assuring safe food for their families. The farmers feel sure that any shortages will be temporary and that, given time, they can catch up with the demand.

An increasing number of farmers in San Antonio, Cayo, are now motivated to study and comply with Organic Certification. Their interest has been greatly influenced by the discovery of this new organic buyer market. They are already learning about new ways to control pests and fungus organically assisted by members of the Belize Organic Alliance (BOA), the Organic Unit at the Central Farm Agriculture Station, and others. Certification is going to take time, but the producers are committing themselves to maintaining the integrity of their product by organizing an organic farmers’ group and insisting that their members comply with safe practices for organic growing.

SANT A ELENA  TOWN, Cayo District, Tuesday, December 2, 2014:

A Santa Elena man was found in possession of 6.6 grams of suspected cannabis.

On Tuesday, December 2, police on mobile patrol on Carmen Street, leading into Carillo Puerto Avenue in Santa Elena saw a suspicious male person walking in the opposite direction on Carmen Street. Upon seeing the police, Jonathan Smith, 40, Belizean laborer, threw a green object to the side of the street and continued walking. Police stopped and escorted Smith to the area where they saw him throw the object. Upon reaching the area police observed that it was a green leafy substance suspect to be marijuana. Smith was cautioned and escorted to the San Ignacio police station.

At the station the suspected marijuana was weighed in his presence amounting to 6.6 grams. Smith was formally arrested and charged for the possession of a controlled drug.

Clarification on GOB December 2014 Residential Mortgage Payment Program

Belmopan. December 3, 2014: Through the Residential Mortgage Payment Program, the Government of Belize will assist qualifying Belizeans by reimbursing December 2014 interest and principal payments on all residential mortgages with an original value of up to BZ$100,000.00.

Borrowers from the National Bank, Commercial Banks, Credit Unions, the Development Finance Corporation and the Belize Social Security Board can apply for assistance; however borrowers must meet the following criteria approved by Cabinet:
1. Must be residential mortgages of original value of no more than BZ$100,000.00;
2. Must be residential mortgages for new home construction. Mortgages for home improvement will not qualify;
3. Mortgages taken out solely for the purpose of refinancing prior mortgages for the construction of new residences will also qualify for the program.
4. Must be legally registered mortgages and not merely the deposit of title deeds called “Equitable Mortgages.”

While payments will be made directly to the qualified borrower, the Government reiterates that it remains the sole responsibility of such borrowers to meet their mortgage payment obligation.

Application forms for the program are available at the Treasury Department in Belize or at any District Sub-Treasury office and can also be downloaded from the Ministry of Finance website at www.mof.gov.bz. Forms will require information on borrowers, their mortgages and information to be supplied by the respective lending institutions.

Completed forms should be submitted to any District Sub-Treasury or the Treasury Department in Belize City as soon as possible but no later than December 31st, 2014.

Belize Officially Hands Over Pro-tempore Presidency of COMISCA

Belmopan. December 2, 2014: Following two days of regional discussions at the XLI Ordinary Meeting of the Council of Ministers of Health of Central America and the Dominican Republic (COMISCA), Minister of Health Hon. Pablo Marin today officially transferred the Pro-tempore Presidency of COMISCA to the Minister of Health of Guatemala Luis Enrique Monterroso, who will now serve for the next six months.

Minister of Health Hon. Pablo Marin expressed his appreciation for the cooperation received during his time as Pro-tempore President. Minister Marin commented, “Enormous strides have been made in Belize and the region and we look forward to further progress in the next year.”

During Belize’s Presidency, new challenges including Ebola and Chikungunya had been addressed. Renewed attention was focused on chronic diseases including HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis and Family & Community health.

Following the transfer of the Pro-tempore Presidency, Minister Monterroso expressed in his acceptance speech that his position as Minister of Health is vital as he must serve the public and alleviate the suffering of the poor. He further stated, “We as COMISCA must have that same vision, that united, we can do much more to alleviate the suffering of the poor. We as a region can do it and must always keep that in mind.”

The XLI Ordinary Meeting of COMISCA was held on December 1st and 2nd at the Banyan Bay Resort in San Pedro Town, Ambergris Caye. Topics of discussion on the agenda included reporting of the Strategic Plan of COMISCA, dialogue situation on Chronic Renal Disease, Chikungunya and Ebola among others.
I heard of a mother who brought into her home as a companion to her own son, a crippled boy who was also a hunchback. She had warned her boy to be very careful in his relations with him as if he were an ordinary boy. She listened to her son as they were playing; and after a few minutes he said to his companion: “It is the box in which your wings are; and some day God is going to cut it open, and then you will fly away and be an angel.”

Some day, God is going to reveal the fact to every Christian, that the very principles they now rebel against, have been the instruments which He used in perfecting their characters and moulding them into perfection, polished stones for His great building yonder. —Cortland Myers

Suffering is a wonderful fertilizer to the roots of character. The great object of this life is character. This is the only thing we can carry with us into eternity. — Austin Phelps

“What gets between you and God souls” (NLT). “Humbly accept!” means you let go of your pride and stop trying to figure it out on your own. This is the key to opening your mind and heart so that you can hear from the Lord.

The seeds that fell on rocky ground are the people who gladly hear the message and accept it. But they don’t have deep roots, and they believe only for a little while. As soon as life gets hard, they give up.” (Luke8:13 CEV)

“Do you know what you have got on your back?” The little hunchback was embarrassed, and he hesitated a moment. The boy said: “You have to sit and be quiet. You have to handle it. You’ve got to make time to listen during a daily time with God. You have to sit and be quiet. You have to read the Bible and talk to God. Play some music. If you like to journal, do that. Whatever it takes to keep the focus on God, do it!”

You’ve also got to have a weekly small group. Nobody has a complete perspective on life. Every one of us has blinders on. The people in your small group can see things in your life you can’t see. That’s why we need each other! You learn from the people in your small group as you encourage each other and your roots go deeper.

Fruit Comes from Deep Roots

Heb 2:10 - Perfect through suffering

Steel is iron plus fire. Soil is rock, plus heat, or glacier crushing. Linen is flax plus the bath that cleans, the comb that separates, and the flail that pounds, and the shuttle that weaves. Human character must have a plus attached to it. The world does not forget great characters. But great characters are not made of luxuries, they are made by suffering.

“Do you really want to be that way? Don’t take the time to let it sink in. We’re moved impulsively. But we don’t allow it to change us. We act and get excited about it, but we don’t have deep roots, and they believe only for a little while. As soon as life gets hard, they give up” (CEV).

Luke 8:13 says, “The seeds that fell on rocky ground are the people who gladly hear the message and accept it. But they don’t have deep roots, and they believe only for a little while. As soon as life gets hard, they give up” (CEV).

A lot of times we hear God’s Word and get excited about it, but we don’t allow it to change us. We act superficially. We react emotionally. We’re moved impulsively. But we don’t take the time to let it sink in. Do you really want to be that way?

No! You want to be a deep person, not a shallow person. You want to be a person with deep spiritual roots so that when recession comes and lasts several years, you’re able to keep bearing fruit. When the rough winds come and somebody in your family gets sick or somebody dies, the trial doesn’t blow you away, because you’ve got roots.

How do you develop spiritual roots? There are two ways: a daily time with God and a weekly small group time with other believers. You’ve got to spend time alone with God, and you’ve got to spend time with other believers.

If you’re not spending time with God on a daily basis, you’re going to dry up and blow away when the pressure is on. You won’t be able to handle it. You’ve got to make time to listen during a daily time with God. You have to sit and be quiet. You have to read the Bible and talk to God. Play some music. If you like to journal, do that. Whatever it takes to keep the focus on God, do it!

You’ve also got to have a weekly small group. Nobody has a complete perspective on life. Every one of us has blinders on. The people in your small group can see things in your life you can’t see. It was slightly before Thanksgiving. The trip went reasonably well, and I was ready to go back. The airport on the other end had turned a tacky red and green, and loudspeakers blared annoying elevator renditions of cherished Christmas carols. Being someone who took Christmas very seriously, and being slightly tired, I was not in a particularly good mood.

Going to check in my luggage (which, for some reason, had become one suitcase with entirely new clothes), I saw hanging mistletoe. Not real mistletoe, but very green paint mistletoe. This is the story of four people named Everybody, Somebody, Anybody, and Nobody. There was an important job to be done and Everybody was asked to do it. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it. Somebody got angry about that, because it was Everybody’s job. Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn’t do it. Consequently, it wound up that Nobody told Anybody, so Everybody blamed Somebody.

So the store owner explained that the veterinarian had examined the little puppy and had discovered it didn’t have a hip socket. It would always be lame.

The little boy became excited. "That is the puppy that I want to take home," he said. He looked up at the store owner and softly replied, "Well, I don’t run so well myself, and the little puppy will need someone who understands." Don’t we all need someone who understands?

A blond went to the dentist. "I want you to paint my teeth blue." – the blond. "What?!?" – exclaimed the dentist. "Just do it!" – the blond. So the dentist painted her teeth blue. The blond went back to her car and called her friend to talk about it.

A store owner was tacking a sign above his door that read: "Puppies For Sale". Signs like that have a way of attracting small children and sure enough, a little boy appeared under the store owner’s sign.

"How much are you going to sell the puppies for?" he asked.

The store owner replied, "Anywhere from $30 to $50." The little boy reached in his pocket and pulled out some change. "I have $2.37," he said. "Can I please look at them?"

The store owner smiled and whistled and out of the kennel came Lady, who ran out in the aisle of his store followed by five teeny, tiny balls of fur. One puppy was lagging behind. Immediately the little boy singled out the lagging, limping puppy and said, "What’s wrong with that little dog?"

The Making Tourism Benefit Communities Adjacent to Archaeological Sites (MTBCAAS) project has achieved yet another important milestone, with the completion of The Xunantunich Education Centre, as well as infrastructure improvements and installation of signs at this site. The completion of works at this site marks the first of a total of nine sites which are being enhanced under the MTBCAAS Project. The project is funded under the Belize Rural Development Programme II (BRDPII), supported by the European Union and the Government of Belize.

For the first time, the spectacular archaeological site of Xunantunich has a dedicated space to provide training to students and archaeologists alike. The 950 square feet facility will allow the Institute of Archaeology to provide on-site training in a proper facility boasting an audiovisual room and a dedicated classroom that can accommodate up to 40 persons in two different spaces at any one time. Visitors to Xunantunich can also now enjoy additional improvements at the site, as other infrastructure improvements were carried out under the MTBCAAS Project. The improvements feature new walkways made from gravel and concrete surfaces, the installation of directional, interpretative, warning and notice signs, and benches in designated rest areas.

The Making Tourism Benefit Communities Adjacent to Archaeological Sites (MTBCAAS) project is being implemented by the Belize Tourism Board and the National Institute of Culture and History. The objectives of the project are:

* To improve economic opportunities in rural communities and contribute to the reduction of poverty;
* To enhance the tourism experience through improvements in tourism infrastructure and services at selected sites.

Glaucoma

Glaucoma is a term describing a group of ocular (eye) disorders resulting in optic nerve damage or loss to the field of vision, in many patients caused by a clinically characterized pressure buildup in regards to the fluid of the eye (intraocular pressure-associated optic neuropathy). In a large number of glaucoma patients, however, the intraocular pressure (IOP) is normal, i.e. below 20 mm Hg. These patients display the same signs of glaucomatous damage as those with an elevated IOP; their condition is thus called normal tension glaucoma. The disorders can be roughly divided into two main categories. "open-angle" and "closed-angle" (or "angle closure") glaucoma. The angle refers to the area between the iris and cornea, through which fluid must flow to escape via the trabecular meshwork, an area of tissue in the eye located around the base of the cornea. Closed-angle glaucoma can appear suddenly and is often painful; visual loss can progress quickly, but the discomfort often leads patients to seek medical attention before permanent damage occurs. Open-angle, chronic glaucoma tends to progress at a slower rate and patients may not notice they have lost vision until the disease has progressed significantly.

The increased intraocular pressure can permanently damage vision in the affected eye(s) and lead to blindness if left untreated. It is normally associated with increased fluid pressure in the eye (aqueous humour). The term "ocular hypertension" is used for people with consistently raised intraocular pressure (IOP) without any associated optic nerve damage. Conversely, the term 'normal tension' or low tension' glaucoma is used for those with optic nerve damage and associated visual field loss, but normal or low intraocular pressure.

The nerve damage involves loss of retinal ganglion cells in a characteristic pattern. The many different subtypes of glaucoma can all be considered to be a type of optic neuropathy. Raised intraocular pressure (above 21 mmHg or 2.8 kPa) is the most important and only modifiable risk factor for glaucoma. However, some may have high eye pressure for years and never develop damage, while others can develop nerve damage at a relatively low pressure. Untreated glaucoma can lead to permanent damage of the optic nerve and resultant visual field loss, which over time can progress to blindness.

When the scleral venous sinus is blocked to where aqueous humor is not reabsorbed at a faster rate than it is being secreted, elevated pressure within the eye occurs. Pressure within the anterior and posterior chambers pushes the lens back and puts pressure on the vitreous body. The vitreous body presses the retina against the choroid and compresses the blood vessels that feed the retina. Without a sufficient blood supply, retinal cells will die and the optic nerve may atrophy, causing blindness. Typically, the nerves furthest from the focal point fail first because of their distance from the central blood supply to the eye; thus, vision loss due to glaucoma tends to start at the edges with the peripheral visual field, leading to progressively worse tunnel vision.

Glaucoma has been called the "silent thief of sight" because the loss of vision often occurs gradually over a long period of time, and symptoms only occur when the disease is quite advanced. Once lost, vision cannot normally be recovered, so treatment is aimed at preventing further loss. Worldwide, glaucoma is the second-leading cause of blindness after cataracts. It is also the leading cause of blindness among African Americans. Glaucoma affects one in 200 people aged 50 and younger, and one in 10 over the age of 80. If the condition is detected early enough, it is possible to arrest the development or slow the progression with medical and surgical means.

Signs and symptoms

Open-angle glaucoma accounts for 90% of glaucoma cases in the United States. It is painless and does not have acute attacks. The only signs are gradually progressive visual field loss, and optic nerve changes (increased cup-to-disc ratio on fundoscopic examination).

Closed-angle glaucoma accounts for less than 10% of glaucoma cases in the United States, but as many as half of glaucoma cases in other nations (particularly Asian countries). About 10% of patients with closed angles present with acute angle closure crises characterized by sudden ocular pain, seeing halos family sort of day. Lucky numbers: 49, 55, 67.

TAURUS: April 21 to May 21
On Monday and Tuesday your mind seems divided. Mostly you have differing thoughts about your time and the pace at which you’re moving. Should you slow your goal trajectory a bit? Should you accelerate it? Are you walking too quickly when you could be enjoying the stroll? On Wednesday and Thursday, you’re not really bothered by such questions, mostly because you’re so intensely happy. Nothing seems to bother you at all. But on Friday and Saturday, a few minor financial frustrations underscore a certain level of crankiness. On Sunday, have dinner with a friend. Lucky numbers: 73, 88, 97.

GEMINI: May 22 to June 21
On Monday and Tuesday, someone is coming at you fast and furious with advice. If you were in a different mood, you might take offense to this person saying that (essentially) you don’t know what you’re doing. But on those days you’re thrilled, because it’s really good advice. You can put your feelings aside and recognize the value of their words. On Wednesday and Thursday, a few brand-new obstacles come your way, but now you have strategies for dealing with them. Friday and Saturday are full of hand-shaking and telling strangers your name — including, yes, an attractive stranger or two. Lucky numbers: 19, 29, 36.

CANCER: June 21 to July 21
Your brain is quick on Monday and Tuesday — much quicker than usual. Your feelings are a bit closer to the surface, too. It will take some effort to keep from responding emotionally to things that normally wouldn’t get to you, but it’s just a mood thing. Wednesday and Thursday you’re a lot more open to anything anyone wants to toss your way. Winy little jab? Absolutely. Bring it. The difference is that Wednesday and Thursday are just plain fun. A dinner party is a fantastic idea. Friday and Saturday you find yourself discovering something new about yourself. Lucky numbers: 13, 26, 48.

LEO: July 24 to August 21
On Monday and Tuesday, a conversation with someone reverses a conviction you’ve held for a long time. Something you were very sure of – – … Poof! It’s gone! Turned upside down! It’s funny how one person’s perspective can change everything. On Wednesday and Thursday, the perspective you’re most worried about is your boss’. You’re particularly attuned to how you come across at work, and you’re trying to reinforce a good impression. Friday and Saturday are social — it may be that you’re socializing with work people; nevertheless, you’re socializing. Sunday’s more of a stay-at-home day. Lucky numbers: 66, 75, 94.

VIRGO: August 22 to September 21
Monday and Tuesday you know exactly what you’re doing, and it gives all of your actions a kind of magical vivacity. Not to mention a sense of inevitability. This is a talent of yours, something you’ve cultivated, this knowing what you’re doing, and you can call it up even when you have no idea what you’re doing! On Wednesday and Thursday, the thing that strikes you is how compatible you and you-know-who are. A trip together proves it. Friday and Saturday you have a bunch of things to tell people and not much time, so you’re front of your email a lot. But Sunday you get some fresh air. Lucky numbers: 59, 77, 95.

LIBRA: September 22 to October 23
Monday and Tuesday you’re focused on a certain relationship. It might be romantic or it might be professional, but whatever it is, you can barely think about anything else. Most likely the issue is that there’s compromise required, and you’re just not sure if you’re prepared to bend. Give it some time. Reconsider. On Wednesday and Thursday, delicious meals figure strongly — either you’ve stumbled onto a new set of recipes or you’re around someone who’s a great cook. Friday and Saturday are more about the dinner conversation than the dinner, but Sunday’s quiet, peaceful and gorgeous. Lucky numbers: 69, 78, 86.

SCORPIO: October 24 to November 21
Monday or Tuesday, in the middle of helping someone else, you might bang your head, or do something equally random and painful. It’s not going to be a lasting pain, but you’ll remember it at least all afternoon. So watch it! On Wednesday and Thursday, you’re hanged around again — emotionally this time. Someone has their hands on your heart, and they’re letting you know what they know it. What a week this is! Thankfully, none of the damage lasts, and in a strange way, you’ll look back on all of it as either funny or educational. This weekend’s an adventure! Excellent adventure! Lucky numbers: 39, 52, 83.

SAGITTARIUS: November 22 to December 21
Monday and Tuesday are romantic, but not in a gushy way. They’re romantic in a way that involves playing games and laughing hysterically. On Wednesday and Thursday, you have some responsibilities to attend to, as much as you’d like to be thinking big-picture thoughts, it’s the details that need your attention. On Friday and Saturday, there’s so much going on in your life it’s almost funny, with people running around and opening and closing doors and making silly phone calls. But you love the antic energy. On Sunday, try to reconnect with you-know-who. Have a good talk. Lucky numbers: 58, 79, 87.

CAPRICORN: December 22 to January 20
Monday and Tuesday find you protecting your resources — especially in the career and family realms. You’re worried about something, or perhaps you’re just getting sentimental. Maybe the resources you’re protecting are simply keepsakes. Nevertheless, on Wednesday and Thursday you couldn’t be less worried about anything. Nature figures into these days, as does romance and relaxing and letting your feelings be known. Friday and Saturday you’re doing a lot of communicating but you don’t seem to be getting through to people. On Sunday, focus on just one person. Lucky numbers: 03, 14, 20.

AQUARIUS: January 20 to February 18
Monday and Tuesday you make so many discoveries that you’d be wise to keep a notebook with you, just to keep track of it all. These periods of discovery happen a lot in your life and are good for your brain. They give you energy. On Wednesday and Thursday, you’re a little more low-energy, but still, you’re bending your brain around new things. During Friday and Saturday, you give your brain a rest and give in to your intuitive romantic side — the side that requires no thinking at all. On Sunday, you’re trying to figure out what it all means. Lucky numbers: 07, 17, 42.

PISCES: February 20 to March 21
On Monday and Tuesday you’re at a loss. Someone is not telling you something and you can tell, but you can’t tell who it is or why. You just have this funny feeling. Not that you mind a mystery. As a matter of fact, you get into this position a lot, this ‘I know something is up’ position. On Wednesday and Thursday, instead of worrying about it, focus on your love life — which, luckily, gives you plenty to focus on right now. If you’re not hanging out with someone special, write a poem. Friday and Saturday you’re incredibly busy, but Sunday is fun and romantic. Lucky numbers: 25, 46, 63.

Of the several causes for glaucoma, elevated intraocular pressure (IOP) is the most important risk factor in most glaucomas, but in some populations, only 50% of people with primary open-angle glaucoma actually have elevated ocular pressure.

Dietary

No clear evidence indicates vitamin deficiencies cause glaucoma in humans. It follows, then, that oral vitamin supplementation is not a recommended treatment for glaucoma. Caffeine increases intraocular pressure in those with glaucoma. Caffeine increases intraocular pressure in those with glaucoma, but does not appear to affect normal individuals.

Ethnicity and sex

Many people of East Asian descent are prone to developing angle closure glaucoma due to shallower anterior chamber depths, with the majority of cases of glaucoma in this population consisting of some form of angle closure. Inuit also have a 20- to 40-times higher risk of developing primary angle closure glaucoma. Women are three times more likely than men to develop acute angle closure glaucoma due to their shallower anterior chambers. People of African descent are three times more likely to develop primary open-angle glaucoma.

Genetics

Positive family history is a risk factor for glaucoma. The relative risk of having primary open-angle glaucoma (POAG) is increased about two- to four-fold for individuals who have a sibling with glaucoma. Glaucoma, particularly primary open-angle glaucoma, is associated with mutations in several different genes (including MYOC, ASB10, WDR36, NTFS, and TBR1 genes), although most cases of glaucoma do not involve these genetic mutations. Normal-tension glaucoma, which comprises one-third of POAG, is also associated with genetic mutations (including OPA1 and OPTN genes).

Various rare congenital/genetic eye malformations are associated with glaucoma. Occasionally, failure of the tunica vasculosa lentis is associated with the tunica vasculosa lentis is associated with other anomalies. Angle closure-induced ocular hypertension and glaucomatous optic neuropathy may also occur with these anomalies, and has been modelled in mice.

Other

Other factors can cause glaucoma, known as "secondary glaucoma," including prolonged use of steroids (steroid-induced glaucoma); conditions that severely restrict blood flow to the eye, such as severe diabetic retinopathy and central retinal vein occlusion (neovascular glaucoma); ocular trauma (angle-recession glaucoma); and uveitis (uveitic glaucoma). In a large study in the UK, glaucoma patients had a 29% increased incidence of systemic hypertension compared to age- and sex-matched controls.
